

Dr. George Keddies Samuel

Lecturer of Modern and Contemporary Philosophy in the Department of Philosophy, graduated from the Faculty of Arts, Helwan University in 2000, obtained a BA with honor degree, worked as a Demonstrator at the college in 2001, obtained a master's degree in modern philosophy in 2006 with an excellent grade and a recommendation to print and circulate the thesis with other Egyptian universities, traveled on a mission to study for a doctorate at King's College London in the United Kingdom, and obtained a doctorate in contemporary philosophy with an excellent grade with first class honor degree in 2013, has many publications in the field of modern and contemporary philosophy, political philosophy, shared writings on German philosophy and the philosophy of history, has many teaching experiences in the departments of philosophy, media, German, sociology, and the Faculty of Education, in addition to teaching critical thinking and professional Ethics at the Faculty of Engineering, and the Faculty of Arts and applied arts at Helwan National University.